

One of us is lying

Most of the story takes place at Bayview High, a regular school in the present day. At the beginning, it seems like a normal story in a regular school but after an incident, the story becomes confusing and mysterious.

The story follows five main characters, each representing a common high school stereotype. There is the bad boy, the popular girl, the athlete, the smart girl and the all-knowing student. The story begins with Bronwyn's perspective, she is intelligent, responsible and always follows the rules. She wants to be the leader in every situation. Then comes Copper's perspective, he is handsome and athletic, but not like the usual stereotype, he is kind and responsible. The next is Addy's perspective, she is beautiful and popular, but not mean. The last is Nate's perspective, he is the typical bad boy, he looks like he is not interested in what is happening. Finally, there is Simon, the creator of a gossip app. He is very observant because he needs to analyze people to find secrets. However, his time in the story is short because he dies at the end of the second chapter.

The story begins when a group of students are sent to detention because they brought phones to Mr. Avery's class, which is not allowed. The strange thing is that those weren't their phones, so everyone thinks it's some kind of prank.

During detention, Simon has an allergic reaction, he was supposed to have an epinephrine pen in his backpack, but they couldn't find it. They also searched in the nurse's office, but nothing. The paramedics arrived, even so, he didn't survive.

So far, I really like the story because it has suspense, which makes you want to keep reading. In the first chapter, two cars crashed, and when the teacher went outside, the cars left, I think that might be important in the following chapters, but I have no idea of what will happen next. I would recommend the story because I like how it shows the perspectives of different characters.
